FEATURED SPEAKERS

VIVIAN VERDELL GORDON, PhD
Professor, Department of Africana Studies
State University of New York at Albany

Dr. Vivian Verdell Gordon is a professor in the Department of Africana Studies at the State University of New York at Albany. A popular speaker and community activist, Dr. Gordon has served as a guest scholar in residence and a visiting professor at Gettysburg College, Savannah State University, Wellesley College, and Northeastern University. Prior to joining the faculty at Albany, Dr. Gordon was a faculty member in the Department of Sociology at the University of Virginia, where she also served for five years as the Director of the African American Studies Program.

Dr. Gordon is among those Afrocentric scholars seeking to develop new models and paradigms for the study and evaluation of the African American experience. She is the author of several books and has also contributed articles to various professional publications. In addition, she has made numerous presentations and conducted workshops on the topics of race, ethnicity, gender, and cultural diversity.

Dr. Gordon earned her B.S. degree from Virginia State University, the M.A. in Sociology from the University of Pennsylvania, and a Ph.D. degree from the University of Virginia. She is the recipient of numerous awards including awards for outstanding service to students and the community. She recently received the Zora Neal Hurston/Paul Robeson Award for distinguished scholarship.

MOLEFI KETE ASANTE, PhD
Professor & Chairperson, Department of African American Studies Temple University, Philadelphia

Dr. Molefi Kete Asante is a professor and Chairperson of the Department of African American Studies at Temple University in Philadelphia. He is considered by his peers to be one of the most distinguished contemporary scholars in the country.

Professor Asante is the author of 32 books, the latest of which is entitled Thunder and Silence: The Mass Media in Africa. Dr. Asante received his Ph.D. at age 26 and was appointed to a full professor at 30. He established the first doctoral program in African American Studies in the world. Dr. Asante has authored more than one hundred scholarly articles, founded the Afrocentric philosophical movement, and the National Afrocentric Institute. He has directed 42 doctoral students, many of whom now serve in important posts throughout the world.

Born in Valdosta, Georgia and educated at UCLA, he worked in Zimbabwe as a trainer of journalists. He is a poet, dramatist, painter, and a gardener. He is Chairperson of the Board of GRIO, an educational magazine, and founding editor of the Journal of Black Studies. Additionally, Dr. Asante is a curriculum consultant for the several large School Districts. An activist scholar, Dr. Asante believes that it is not enough to know, one must also act to humanize the world.

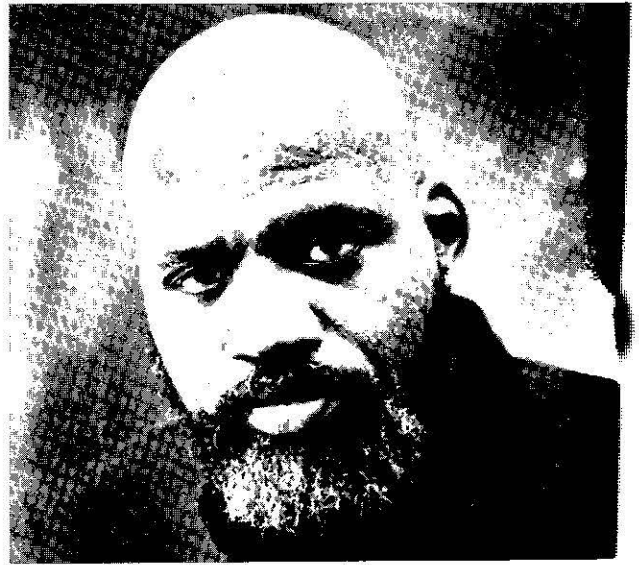

FEATURED SPEAKERS

HARRY EDWARDS, PhD
Professor, Department of Sociology
University of California at Berkeley

Dr. Edwards, presently Professor of Sociology at the University of California at Berkeley, is the founder of the Discipline of Sports Sociology that focuses on the relationship between American sports and society and their effects on racial equality. He is considered an expert on the racial, political and economic issues of sports, society and education. He has distinguished himself by serving as a Special Assistant to the Commissioner of Major League Baseball and serving as a consultant with producers of sports related programs on NBC, CBS, ABC, and the PBS Television Network.

Dr. Edwards has written and published more than 60 articles and reviews and serves as contributing editor to numerous newspapers and magazines. He is a native of East St. Louis and is married with three children.

ANTONIA PANTOJA, PhD
Founder of Aspira
Chairperson of Board of Directors of Produccion
Community Activist

Dr. Antonia Pantoja's life has been a history of service to others. She founded Aspira, a national educational institution designed to create a cadre of educated and committed leaders from the Puerto Rican and other Latino communities. Today, Aspira graduates can be found in every career field and in all walks of life. Other institutions founded by Dr. Pantoja include the Puerto Rican Forum, a training and business development group; "PRACA," a family and child service agency; and Universidad Boricua all were created to foster participation of Puerto Ricans in all sectors of society.

She has held teaching positions at Columbia University, University of Puerto Rico, New School for Social Research, and San Diego State University. She is an accomplished speaker and writer.

Dr. Pantoja has received a number of honors and awards based on her many years of service and commitment to eliminating racism and fostering social justice. In 1988, she was conferred an Honorary Doctorate by Queens College Law School.

Dr. Pantoja received her Bachelors degree from Hunter College, her Masters from Columbia University, and her Doctorate in Sociology from the Union Graduate College. Today, Dr. Pantoja is living in semi-retirement in San Juan, located in one of the most depressed areas of Puerto Rico. She has once again organized a community economic organization, "Producir," which focuses on community economic development and services for low income residents.

FEATURED SPEAKERS

DEBORAH P. WOLFE, PhD

Chair, New Jersey Board of Higher Education and Professor Emerite of Education Queens College of the City University of New York

Dr. Deborah Partridge Wolfe formerly served as Education Chief with the committee on Education and Labor of the House of Representatives. During her tenure, 35 public laws effecting education and labor were passed. Dr. Wolfe worked in education for many years, having taught on all levels from kindergarten through graduate instruction. She has been a classroom teacher, principal, college professor, and department chairperson.
